Four weeks later the Bicknells sat at the breakfast table. Mrs. Bicknell was perusing the morning papers with a preoccupied air. As the butler stepped into the pantry he raised his eyes suddenly and said: "This is horrible! Young van Grovesyn has been killed by a railroad train at Rahway."

Adele gasped spasmodically at the tidings. "A great cry rose in her throat but the eyes fell on the golden head of her child, and she

The amateur farmer looked wise
He had tramped or driven over large portion of the farm, had passed judgment on the richness of the soil, and had talked on the purchase of some improved machinery. Altogether he was very favorably impressed, and announced that he had about made up his mind to buy the land.

Then he noticed a little pool of bubbling water.

"What's that?" he asked, quickly.

"A spring," replied the old farmer, "one of the purest and coldest in this country."

"A cold spring," exclaimed the amateur farmer.

"Yes sir, and as clear as crystal."

"Look here!" said the amateur farmer, "do I look like a man that can be imposed upon?"

"Why, no—"

"Would you pick me out for a man who doesn't know his business?"

"Of course not. I—"

"Then do you expect to unload this farm on me, badcapped fellow?"

"Why, what's the matter with it?"

"Matter with it? Don't you suppose I read the papers? They kill crops."

"Cold springs do. You can fool me, old man, if I do look like a city bred man. A cold spring is worse than a backward spring, according to the Young Farmer Weekly, and you wouldn't dare sell me a farm with a backward spring on it."

The old man leaned against a fence and didn't know whether to

The young man from the country took his green necktie and the best girl into a restaurant on Woodruff avenue, and like some young men when the girls are around was disposed to be facetious at times.

"Yassir," replied the waiter, perfectly unmoved.

"And waiter, bring it on toast."

"Yassir."

Then he stood there like a statue for a minute.

DEMOCRACY WINS.
 CLEVELAND AND STEVENSON ELECTED BY A SAFE MAJORITY.
 The Solid South With New Jersey, New York, Connecticut and Illinois Under the Banner of the Union, and the balance of the States and Territories, have elected the Democratic ticket.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1902.

THE NEXT PRESIDENT.
 President—Cleveland.
 Vice-President—Stevenson.
 Congressmen—Ellis.
 Judge—Pratt.
 Commonwealth Att'y.—Gray.
 Sheriff—Tapp.
 Circuit Court Clerk—Christy.

The South remains solid.
 Ohio rolls up her usual Republican majority.

It was a narrow escape for Democracy in South Carolina.
 Ohio's Republican majority is in the neighborhood of 20,000.

It's a national victory for the other fellows. "Let 'em holler."
 Cleveland's majority in New York state will exceed forty thousand.

In all probability C. J. Pratt will be the next Circuit Judge of this district.
 In this, the Fourth Judicial District, the Republicans made a good showing.

Little Rhode Island went down with the rest, but will be at the front in 1896.
 In Tennessee the Democratic ticket and the entire State ticket were elected.

The election of Ellis (Dem.) for Congress in this district is conceded by all parties.
 Jerry Simpson is reported lost in the shuffle, and Tom Watson hardly knows where he is at.

Private dispatches from Davis county gave Ellis 900 votes over Pease and 2,000 over Kinley.
 A J. B. Dempsey (Dem.) for county judge, is elected over J. P. Alexander by a handsome majority.

The people believe in giving both parties an equal chance. A four year rule seems to have been adopted.
 All over Indiana the Republican vote showed a gain over the same in 1888. The state is conceded to Harrison.

The Third party vote throughout the country did not come up to the expectations of their numerous candidates.
 Pennsylvania stands loyal to her colors. The Republican majority ranges somewhere from eighty-five to ninety thousand.

Our neighbor, Christian county, still remains in the Republican column. This year's vote shows a gain over the last year's vote.
 Grover Cleveland proved himself on Tuesday a good runner. In Illinois his running mate certainly deserves a share in the pie.

New York State has given Cleveland a safe majority, probably twenty-five thousand. Outside the city of New York a tight vote was polled.
 While the stay-at-home Republicans may in a measure be responsible it must be remembered that the Democrats who voted are not entirely blameless.

Hopkins county polled a good vote. Harrison's vote over Cleveland was less than one hundred.

Weaver's vote in the county was about three hundred and fifty.
 New Jersey's electoral vote was cast for Cleveland while the Republicans claim to have elected their governor by from three to four thousand majority.

The returns from all the precincts in the county, not officially reported, indicates a victory for the Democrats, with one exception, C. J. Pratt (Rep.) for circuit judge, who carried the county by sixty-one votes.

C. J. Pratt has carried Caldwell, Crittenden and Hopkins counties by a majority over T. J. Nunn (Dem.) of 477. Unless Mr. Nunn comes out of Livingston county with a greater majority he must suffer defeat.

The Republicans have probably lost control of the United States senate along with the rest. This will give the Democrats complete control of the National affairs. We will see if they keep their promises.

Throughout Kentucky the secret ballot system worked to everybody satisfaction. The vote on official ballot will afford the Republicans a grain of comfort and the Democrats some uneasiness. The Democratic majority is somewhat lessened, probably due to a light vote.

KENTUCKY WILL EXHIBIT.
 The World's Fair Commissioners Elected Over the Decision of Judge Montfort—An Appeal is Taken as a Higher Court, But Kentucky Will Be Represented.

Last Saturday morning when the papers in the mandamus suit against the Auditor by the World's Fair Commissioners counsel was filed before Judge Montfort, and when the demurrer to the answer was sustained, the court holding that the World's Fair appropriation is constitutional.

Mr. Davis read the petition, setting out the fact that the bill for the expenses has been duly approved, and then citing the Attorney-General's second opinion sustaining its validity.

Senator Goebel then read the answer of the Auditor, giving the history of the bill in the legislative branches, and stating that the passage of the bill had been called in question, and referring to Attorney General's first opinion advising the Auditor not to pay the money under the circumstances.

A general demurrer to the answer was taken by the counsel for the House, giving the whole history of the bills were also filed, making a voluminous record.

Mr. Davis stated that dispatch was imperative in the case. Judge Montfort said he was ready to hear arguments on either side, but none were made.

The court then announced that the demurrer to the answer was sustained and ordered the Auditor to pay the money.

An appeal was taken and the case was docketed at once in the court of the last resort. It was set for hearing on the 15th inst., when the tribunal re-convenes.

WASHINGTON LETTER.
 (From our Regular Correspondent.)
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 4, 1902.

There is very little talk about the political complexion of the next House, though there is a great deal of figuring. The Democratic majority is so overwhelming in the present House that it seems almost a hopeless task to overcome it. It can hardly be said that the Republican Congressional committee expect to have an opportunity at the next Congress to elect Mr. Reed Speaker, but they do expect the big Democratic majority to sweep away very considerably at this election, preparatory to a final and complete disappearance. From a conservative point of view the chances seem to be for the Republicans to make a gain of some forty-five or fifty seats in the House, some of which will come from the people's party. In the neighborhood of forty to forty-seven are likely to come from the Democrats. Under the new apportionment the Democrats can count on but about seven of the additional seats, and leaving out Nebraska, as possibly subject to a claim from the third party, the Republicans can count with reasonably certainty of fourteen of the new seats. The Republicans are thus in position to count on a gain of some sixty old seats in the House, giving them in the neighborhood of a hundred and fifty, though they should make a very insignificant gain in the South and no considerable gain elsewhere. The Democratic majority is, therefore, almost certain to be cut down to two-thirds, with a very considerable possibility below that. While there will be more alliance members in the House, the chances were maintained, the result will not be more than a half dozen third party men.

Politics is not a taboos subject at the White House, but the interest manifested is of a subdued sort. The President has not lost the run of the campaign, nor have the employees about the place forgotten that there is a Presidential contest under way. Still there is not that spirit surrounding the house that would be evinced had the recent events not cast such a shadow over the occupants. President Harrison and the Secretary of State, Foster, are the only ones of the official family who are now in the city, all the others being on the hustings and doing where it is most needed. Yesterday when the bill was introduced under which the city and, from now on the Department work will be in the hands of chiefs considerably below Cabinet officers in rank. The White House looks somewhat deserted. No Cabinet meetings will be held before the election, and but little work is being transacted, there being but little left demands the attention of the Executives. While the active work of the campaign is not being conducted from the White House, a keen interest is being manifested, and every one there is full of confidence that Mr. Harrison will be elected. The President believes that he will win in the coming struggle, and talks with his friends in the most sanguine manner over the result, which he thinks can leave but one outcome.

President Harrison will have a number of good-sized diplomatic plums to distribute if he is re-elected. No appointment is contemplated at present to fill the place of Gen. Baehner at Lisbon, ex-Gov. Foster at home, nor Mr. McKim at Constantinople, and there are few applicants. It is doubtful if any appointments are made in case of Cleveland's election, although men could probably be found who would be willing to go out for a few months for the sake of having an ex-minister written before their names. It is announced at the State Department that Patrick Egan will return to Chili. This evidently means that he wants to go back, and that the Government is so well satisfied with his course and his standing there that it is willing he should. An important position which is still vacant is that of consul at Cairo, which was filled by ex-Representative Anderson, of Kansas until his death.

There does not seem to be very strong pressure for the place at present, but candidates can doubtless be found after the election.

It is stated in late advices from China, that Chi Yui, a Chinese official of high rank, has been appointed minister to the United States to succeed Tsui Ko Yin, the present minister. The correspondence called at the legation yesterday and saw the legation translator, the minister not being able to come.

The legation translator said that the legation had not received an announcement of the appointment, but that they expected it, and if the appointment had not been made it probably would be. He said that the name of Chi Yui had been presented to the emperor.

The term of the present minister, Mr. S. H. B. Rogers, expires on Nov. 10, 1902. The State Department has no official intimation either from the Chinese legation or from the Chinese legation in this city of the reported appointment of a successor to the Chinese minister.

Republicans who are on departmental pay rolls have either gone to vote or are getting ready to do so. They are not making much fuss in their movement, but they are going north and south and east and west in greater numbers than ever before. Nearly all the more prominent men have been in the field some time, each and these are the who have stirred up their lagging brethren at the national capital. The Macedonian cry is ringing in every ear and responsive people and pocket books are showing their appearance by the thousands.

 While we have very few accidents on this road for a record, road business it does, yet occasionally one occurs that is unusual, as was the case last week when several cars were badly damaged by a break in three parts, the particulars of which are about as follows: Conductor Askew and crew were enroute near Saddlers Creek, when a car broke in three parts, which was soon discovered, but before they could stop and couple the cars together again the third part broke loose, moving back into the front car, and striking it with great force. Some delay was caused by the accident, but the train was soon started on its way.

The Illinois Central railroad, operated by the Society for the abatement of the smoke nuisance in Chicago, are making an effort to improve the condition of the locomotives of the Illinois Central Railroad after there will be no complaint on the smoke account. The "smoky" locomotives of the Illinois Central Railroad have been specially favored with attention by the Society for the Prevention of Smoke in Chicago, and as that organization has the might of the law behind it, the railway company has been trying to abate the nuisance. "All the Chicago engines have been fitted with some form of steam jet, but these have been fairly successful. As the smoke nuisance has been fairly efficacious. To make it clear, it should be remembered that the fire-box of a locomotive is nothing but a big metal box, with rows of tubes at one end and a chimney at the other end. The locomotives in question have at the front, or boiler end, of the long end of brickwork which serves to deflect the flames and otherwise improve the efficiency of the boiler. This is a common device in all countries, but not so in the case of two other kinds of locomotives, the "pusher" and the "puller." They are about 10 inches wide, and have been found to consume coal as well as to prevent smoke. When the fire-box is very short but one of these smaller arches are used.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

A wall of roses in the street,
A wild of magnolias,
An eyelash tangled in a veil,
The sparkling gleam of a hat,
A hint of laughter in an eye,
A dimple in a chin,
A widespread gown, two twinkling feet,
And thus to Might Have Been.

She bends me not, she pines by,
Sedately on the go,
She craves me beneath her feet
As lightly as a rose.
And yet I know her really,
"Despite her constant 'No,'
For she is always Might Have Been,
And I am so-and-so."

Oh, girl of mine, sweet girl of mine,
Turn round your pretty head,
And smile upon me once again
As in the days long dead.
Unleash those lashes from your veil,
Uplift them unto me,
Reveal the soul that stole your eyes,
And Might Have Been will be!

HOUSEHOLD BRIEVES.

Sops Cakes.—A cupful of butter, a cupful of sugar, half a cupful of molasses, a teaspoonful of soda, a teaspoonful each of ground ginger, cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg. Mix with four enough of flour to make a stiff dough, and cut in small oval or round cakes.

Courtesy Gentlemen.

Small Rice Cakes.—One quarter of a pound of rice, quarter of a pound of butter, quarter of a pound of sugar, four eggs. Beat the butter to a cream, add the rice, which should be well boiled previously. Add the sugar, beat the yolk and white of the eggs separately. Stir in the yolk, mix well together, then add the white beaten to a stiff froth. Make a smooth paste and bake in gum tins.—Detroit Free Press.

Pickled Sweet Apples.—Take and cut them in quarters or eighths according to size. Cook tender in a strip of seven pounds of fruit to three pounds of sugar and a pint of vinegar. If liked softer than this use more vinegar. Add cinnamon and other spices to taste. Cloves make apples dark, so use them sparingly; a little mace is liked by many. Tie the ground spices in a small bag and boil them in the vinegar.—Orange Judd Farmer.

To bleach rudimentary hair use peroxide of hydrogen as a local application to the "Mauve" or "Jail's hair-bar." It will not remove superfluous hairs nor render invisible a leucous growth, but it will make imperceptible a dark growth on the face of a sensitive girl. As a preliminary measure, it is well to wash the growth with a solution of borax and water. Use this every particle of grease may be removed before applying the peroxide of hydrogen.—Detroit Free Press.

Breakfast Rolls.—At night put one pint of milk on the stove to scald, then add two spoonfuls of sugar and one of butter, mix of egg, cook, then stir slowly enough until done to make dough; add half a cupful of salt, knead right off fifteen minutes, cover well and set to rise. If the weather is warm set in a cool place. Morning roll like bread dough, cut out with a cutter, spread with butter and double together, place on a tin and let rise, bake in a moderate oven.—New York Observer.

Ham Toast.—Chop fine enough could ham to make half a pint. Put one tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan and place on the fire. When hot, add a teaspoonful of flour and stir until smooth and frothy. Gradually add half a pint of cold milk, and stir until the sauce boils, then season with one-tenth of a teaspoonful of cayenne and a half teaspoonful of salt. Add the ham, and cook for three minutes. Spread this on six small slices of crisp toast. Put a poached egg on each slice, and serve at once.—Cook's Magazine.

Cure of the Sick.—Keep the sick in a quiet, sunny room, with an open fireplace, if possible. Remove all heavy curtains, light covers, hangings and tapestries. Keep the temperature just below seventy degrees. Have as far as possible no visible evidence of medicine about the room. Keep the patient clean and neat, and encourage her to habits of cleanliness. Allow no perfumes to be used. While visiting the sick, wash your hands with soap and water. Do not allow visitors to remain in the room.—Ladies Home Journal.

To Cure a Cold.

Colds neglected are the foundation for many of the diseases affecting man as well as domestic animals. A cold closes the pores of the skin, the refuse matter of the body that usually escapes through that outlet is thrown back upon the lungs, into the blood, and thence upon the liver, affecting the stomach, bowels and every function of the body.

To cure a cold, take a large dose of Carlsbad's German Liver Powder at bed time. This will clean the bowels, stimulate the action of the liver and aid digestion. Then take ten grains of quinine, and, if possible, a hot bath, or in some manner start perspiration. Keep yourself protected from cold on the next morning, and your cold will be cured. This treatment never fails. Price 25c per bottle at Robinson Bros' drug store.

Pneumonia "Died."

Don't mail any letter until you are sure that it is completely and properly addressed. Don't place the address to that there will be no room for the postmark. Don't fail in the hurry of business, to write the name of the State you intend and not your own—a very common error. Don't fail to make certain that your manner of writing the name of the State or office may not cause it to be mistaken for one similar in appearance. It is often better to write the name of the State or office.

Don't fail, if you are in doubt as to the right name of the office for which your letter is intended, to consult the Postal Guide, which any postmaster will be pleased to show you.

Don't fail to give the street and house number of the person for whom mail matter is intended in addressing it to a city or large town.

Don't mail any letter until you are sure that it is properly stamped.

Don't fail to place the stamp in the upper right-hand corner.

Don't write on the envelope. In this case, "Care of postmaster," etc., it does no harm, and tends to confusion in the rapid handling of mail matter.

Don't fail to bear in mind that it is unlawful to enclose matter of a higher class in one than is lower, e.g., merchandise in newspapers.

Don't mail any letter unless your address, with a request to return it, upon the face of the envelope, so that in case of non-delivery it will be returned directly to you.

Don't fail to give your correspondence the year of address, so that a new postman cannot fail to find you.

Don't fail to notify your postmaster of any change in your address.

Don't trust to the fact that you are an "old resident," "well-known citizen," etc., but have your letters addressed in full.

Don't fail, if you intend to be away from home for any length of time, to inform your postmaster what disposition shall be made of your mail.

Don't delay the delivery of any mail-matter that you may take out for another.

Don't fail to sign your letters in full, so that if they reach the Dead Letter Office they may be promptly returned.

Don't, when you fail to receive an expected letter, charge the postal service with its loss, until you have learned from your correspondent all the facts in regard to its mailing, contents, etc.

Sick Headache.

Nervous or sick headache is usually caused by derangement of the stomach. Most "headache" cases are nervous, which denotes or paralyze the nervous communicating between the stomach and head. They are harmful and frequently dangerous. Carlsbad's German Liver Syrup goes to the seat of the difficulty, stimulates the action of the stomach and liver and removes the cause, frequently accomplishing a permanent cure. Take a dose of the Syrup when the first symptoms of an attack are felt, and it will usually prevent it. A dose after the attack, repeated in two or three hours, if not relieved, will usually cure the worst case. An occasional dose by persons subject to the disease is generally a sure preventive. Price 50c and 1.00 per bottle at Robinson Bros' drug store. Sample bottles free.

PICKED FROM PICK.

To recall to Marriage a mode is surely sheer stupidity.

For what can you expect from Cep's veterans, but—cupidity?

A Grail Glow.

Rogers—What makes your nose so red, Mr. Reilly?

Reilly—All glows with pride, sir, not putting itself in other people's business.

A Certain Remedy.

Mr. Gossberry—De chile done gone an' swallowed 't bottle 'o ink.

He Was a Cultivated Man.

"The man who just passed is no educated Indian."

"Then I suppose he lives on a mental reservation."

The Best of Reason.

"Why didn't the heirs of old Hedrick contest his will?"

"Well, you see, they were all lawyers, and they didn't see any money in it."

A Frank Admission.

"I tell you," exclaimed Mr. Henson, of St. Louis, "nothing with a Chicago man."

"I tell you that St. Louis is the hottest town."

"Yes," admitted Mr. Livestock of Chicago, "I understand it is a flag-station."

The Vacant Post.

Henson Lott—I saw your servant girl yesterday, and she said your servant girl had gone away on a vacation.

Henson Essex—Yes, she went last week.

Henson Lott—Who is running the house in her absence?

An honest Swede tells his story in plain but unimpeachable language for the benefit of the "public." One of my children took a severe cold and got the croup. I gave her a teaspoonful of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and in five minutes later I gave her one more. By this time she had coughed up the gathering in her throat. Then she went to sleep and slept for fifteen minutes. Then she got up and vomited; then she went back to bed and slept soundly for the remainder of the night. She got the croup the second night and I gave her the same remedy with the same good results. I write this because I thought there might be some one in the same need and not know the true merits of this wonderful medicine." Chas. A. Thompson, Des Moines, Iowa. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by St. Bernard drug store, Lexington, Va. T. Robinson, Morton's Gap, George King, St. Charles.

The victim of the lynch law is usually very high-strung.

The sculptor isn't the kind of a man that cuts no figure in the world.

The surest proof that a man isn't hen pecked is the fact that he keeps a servant girl.

ANCIENT TELEGRAPHY.

A Great Advance for Sending Instantaneous Messages.

The ancient Greeks and Romans practiced telegraphy with the help of posts and flags with straws and twigs saturated in oil, which being placed in rows, expressed certain letters, according to the order in which they were lighted. But the only one of their contrivances that merits a detailed description was that invented by a Grecian general named Aristote, who thought that the time of Aristotle, intended for communication between the generals of an army.

It consisted of two exactly similar earthen vessels filled with water each provided with a cock that would discharge an equal quantity of water in a given time, so that the whole or any part of the contents would escape in precisely the same period from both vessels. On the surface of each floated a piece of cork, supporting an upright, marked off into divisions, each division having a certain sentence inscribed upon it.

One of the vessels was placed at each station and when either party desired to communicate he lighted a torch, which he held aloft until the other did the same at a station that he was all attention. On the sender of the message lowering or extinguishing his torch each party immediately opened the cock of his vessel and so left it until the sender relighted his torch, when it was at once closed. The receiver then read the sentence on the division of the upright that was level with the mouth of the vessel and which, if everything had been executed with exactness, corresponded with that of the sender and so conveyed the desired information.—Industrial World.
